Bobcats Go to Nashville Friday Night

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Tonight, the Hope Bobcats travel to Nashville to do battle with the Scrappers in the last game of the year, in which both teams would like to win and better their season record.

Hope's seniors would especially like to win this one to leave the school with winning ways. A victory would give the seniors a two year mark of 18-5 with a championship year and an overall three year mark of 22-12-1 for their Senior High Career.

Nashville will be out to revenge last years belting while the Bobcats will be out to revenge last weeks narrow loss to Camden, so it should be a real fine ball game with a lot of action.

It will depend on the Bobcats ability to control the ball and the clock, while scoring too. If the Cats put it all together and play their best, I think Hope will bring home about a 28-7 victory.

Powder Puff Game Is Saturday

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Powder Puff Football is almost here and the players, coaches, majorettes, and cheerleaders have been practicing hard for the event sponsored by the Hope High School Student Council.

The seniors run their offensive formation from the Texas Wishbone and the juniors use a modified "Pro" formation.

Led by quarterback Rita Taylor, the seniors boasts such fine runners as Sharon Bain at one halfback, along with Janice Whitaker and Sharon Brown.

Junior quarterback Betty Rodden leads the juniors awesome attack with Karen Davis, Terry Jones, and Sandy Flowers completing the backfield. Cindy Hollis and Gladice Spellman also give the juniors a passing attack which should help tremendously.

Both teams think they have good size and speed and with good blocking, which will be needed, could win handily.

Junior coaches believe they have the best balanced, all-round

Liberalized Deer Season Opens Nov. 9

By JAY KAFFKA

LITTLE ROCK—Deer hunting will be more liberalized across the state during the first gun hunt that opens Nov. 9 and runs through Nov. 14. Major changes in the regulations include the taking of only legal bucks in all of the open zones. This includes Zone 21, which was open last year to the taking of any deer.

As for areas on the closed list for deer hunting, this takes in all state parks, the Arkansas Post National Monument, and those zones designated as Zone 23, Brandywine Island Wildlife Management Area, and the Camp Robinson Quail Restoration Area. These areas are closed to all types of hunting. Commission-owned wildlife management areas closed to deer hunting include Bayou DeView, Howard County, Hurricane Lake, Wattensaw, Pike County, and Lafayette County. These areas were open for a brief permit deer hunt earlier, but closed to all deer hunting for the remainder of 1970.

A large number of management areas will be closed after the first deer period, and this information will be published prior to the Thanksgiving three-day hunt. All of the state permit hunts have been concluded, and except for two special permit hunts on the White River National Refuge no other permit hunts will be held. Therefore, during the first November period no does may be taken.

Dogs may not be used to take deer in Zones 9, 10, and 12. Many management areas are closed to the use of dogs to take deer. A complete list of wildlife management areas and the rules for the various hunts are outlined on the 1970-71 hunting regulations that are available from the Game and Fish Commission in Little Rock.

As for the regular deer hunting regulations, hunters cannot establish a camp more than 48 hours before the opening of the hunt and must break camp 24 hours after hunts close. All deer taken must be tagged and reported to the various check stations. Hunters under 16 years of age, as well as holders of lifetime hunting licenses, can obtain deer tags from any check station.

Legal bucks are defined as any deer with antlers at least four inches long or one with forked antlers. Deer with antlers smaller or without antlers are not legal targets.

Among the new changes are that 410 gauge shotguns can now be used to take deer, but only with the use of slugs. Buckshot cannot be used with 410's. All rifles using rim-fire cartridges are prohibited for deer hunting, and all full-metal case or military ammunition is banned.

Once a hunter has taken one deer during the first period he cannot legally continue to hunt deer, as only one deer per period may be taken by an individual hunter.

During the first firearms deer hunt, archers may take legal bucks only. After Nov. 14 and until the next hunt opens—Nov. 26—archers may once again take any deer.

Other statewide deer hunts scheduled for 1970 will be the three-day hunt opening on Nov. 28. Except for the regular closed areas and management areas, the entire state will again be open to the taking of any deer. However, the entire state will be closed to the use of dogs during the three-day deer hunt.

The final hunt will open Dec. 14 and continue through Dec. 19, with legal bucks only in the open areas. Except for Zone 23, all zones will be open.

Residents may take deer on the regular $3.50 license, which includes two deer tags. Non-residents 16 and older must purchase a basic hunting license and the deer tags cost an extra $10 each. Non-residents under 16 may hunt deer without a license, but upon bagging a deer must secure a license and tag the same as those 16 and older.

Hammond also scored the other Arkansas touchdown from the one in the first quarter.

Cy Young

Award Goes to

Jim Perry

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Perry of the Minnesota Twins, succeeding where his brother failed, was named the American League winner of the Cy Young Award today in one of the most competitive balloting in the 15-year history of the honor.

The right-handed pitcher, who compiled a 24-12 record for his second consecutive 20-victory season, won out in a four-way race with Baltimore's Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar and Sam McDowell of Cleveland.

Perry picked up six first place votes and a total of 55 points while McNally had 47, McDowell 45 and Cuellar, who shared last year's award with Denny McLain, had 44.

Jim Palmer, Baltimore's third 20-game winner, had 11 points; Clyde Wright of California nine, and Ron Perranoski of Minnesota five for his one first place vote, the only reliever ever to get a top vote in the balloting.

As the first Minnesota pitcher ever to win the award, Perry accomplished what his brother Gaylord of the San Francisco Giants failed to do in the National League. Gaylord finished a distant second to Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals in the voting for the NL Cy Young Award earlier in the week.

Picks the Pro Pass, Punt Champion Favorites This Weekend

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League's weekend program includes nine games which will have a bearing on first place—and that makes it a critical schedule.

First place, however, is something this pro picker would have trouble locating. Last week's picks turned up a 7-5-1 record for 15-9-2 over-all—and the jitters with so many critical games scheduled.

The key ones are Minnesota at Washington, Dallas at New York Giants, Cleveland at Oakland, Denver at San Diego, San Francisco at Chicago, Atlanta at Los Angeles, Detroit at New Orleans, Boston at St. Louis and Houston at Kansas City.

Here, theoretically, is how it will all turn out (Sunday games unless otherwise noted):

Minnesota 31, Washington 21 — Vikings lead NFC Central and have allowed only 56 points in seven games. Redskins' defense improving, but Vikings playing as if they're invincible with Gary Cuozzo taking firm hold at quarterback.

Dallas 27, New York Giants 24 — Giants, one back of Cowboys and Cardinals, suffer letdown after emotional victory over crosstown rival Jets. And the Cowboys won't pick any fights. What'll Fran Tarkenton, the Giants' quarterback, think of now?

Oakland 28, Cleveland 21 — Speaking of fights, the Raiders will get one from the Browns, but rookie tight end Ray Chester gives Daryle Lamonica too many weapons. Besides, Browns may be without Leroy Kelly. Raiders lead AFC West, Browns AFC Central.

San Francisco 38, Chicago 10 — NFC Western leading 49ers take to the road and maul Bears behind quarterback John Brodie, having a great season. Chicago hanging in there without Gale Sayers but Cecil Turner can't return a kickoff for a TD every game.

San Diego 21, Denver 20 — The Chargers, with Dick Post back in the line-up, now have the running-strength to upend the Broncos, who have been slipping and trail Oakland by .029 percentage points in AFC West.

Los Angeles 35, Atlanta 24 — Rams have to keep winning to keep up with 49ers in NFC West, but may find the Falcons tougher than expected. Falcon quarterback Bob Berry will have to be careful against a front four that leads the NFC in dumping the passer.

Detroit 31, New Orleans 14 — The Lions, now trailing Vikings by full game in NFC Central, could have letdown after tough battle with Minnesota, but Saints are a good team to let down against. J. D. Roberts makes his debut as head coach for New Orleans.

St. Louis 42, Boston 7 — Cardinals tied with Cowboys in NFC East and Patriots are going through another upheaval with Coach Clive Rush replaced by John Mazur. St. Louis sent Coach Wally Lemm reeling in 44-0 victory over Houston last week.

Kansas City 28, Houston 13 — Chiefs haven't exactly been a ball of fire this season, but Ed Podolac seems to give the running game more steam every week. Super Bowl Chiefs 3-3-1 and can't afford another defeat.

Miami 17, Philadelphia 14 — This may be the Eagles' best shot to win one this season, but here's a guess the Dolphins will bounce back after two successive shutouts.

New York Jets 24, Pittsburgh 20 — Al Woodall coming on as Jets' quarterback. Pitt glomorguy Terry Bradshaw barking at club now. That doesn't help.

Buffalo 28, Cincinnati 21 — O.J. Simpson coming off his best ground gaining performance for Bills while Bengals, weakened by injuries, having trouble scoring.

Baltimore 31, Green Bay 28 (Monday) — A tussle for the Texas, Irish Should Have No Trouble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Our game plan is to hang on. With that, Baylor Coach Bill Beall sends his game-but-out-gunned Bears against the No. 1 college football team in the country Saturday at Waco, Tex.

The Texas Longhorns are the leading ground team in the nation and own the land's longest winning streak of 26. Only other longer major college football strings are by Michigan State (28) in the early 1950s and Oklahoma-streaks of 31 and 47.

Beall says Baylor must eliminate mistakes to keep from being blown out of the stadium by powerful Texas, which holds a 44-11-4 series record, including the last 12 in a row.

Everything also looks bright this weekend for Notre Dame and Ohio State, the nation's second- and third-ranked teams, and, of course, No. 6 Stanford.

Notre Dame is expected to have little trouble with visiting Pittsburgh. Ohio State has the toughest test of the top three and the Buckeyes are a two-touchdown choice over Wisconsin at Madison.

Stanford, however, could have a thorny day in a regionally televised game against visiting Washington, but the Indians can step into the Rose Bowl with a victory, and that should provide quite an incentive.

Texas, Notre Dame and Ohio State have been battling all season for that No. 1 ranking, and the Longhorns and Irish also seem to be moving toward another Cotton Bowl meeting.

Notre Dame is supposed to have a tacit agreement to go to the Orange Bowl this year but another shot at Texas could make Coach Ara Parseghian prefer Dallas to Miami on New Colts, out they're protecting first place in AFC East and riding five-game winning streak. Don Horn may be at quarterback for Packers.

Thinks Hogs Will Defeat Rice 28 to 7

By HARRY KING

Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rice's record is deceiving.

The Owls, who meet seventh-ranked Arkansas Saturday at Fayetteville, opened the season with a 42-0 victory over VMI and are 1-4 since. However, the combined record of those five teams is 23-11.

Rice has lost to LSU, Texas, SMU and Texas Tech. The Owls, third in the Southwest Conference in defense, permitted high-scoring SMU only one touchdown and did not allow Tech a TD.

The Razorbacks, who have won six straight, have been established four touchdown favorites by the oddsmakers.

Arkansas, of course, will be without the services of tailback Bill Burnett who scored 50 touchdowns during his career as a Razorback. He suffered a shoulder separation in last week's 45-6 rout of Texas A&M and is probably out for the season.

With Burnett injured, the tailback burden falls on Jon Richardson, the exciting sophomore from Little Rock. Richardson, who has logged considerable playing time this year, has averaged 5.2 yards a carry while gaining 224 yards.

Arkansas' first team has barely worked up a sweat the past few Saturdays, but Rice's defense may make it a long afternoon for the Razorbacks' offense.

However, the Razorbacks lead the conference in defense against scoring and the Owls have had trouble scoring.

Arkansas is headed toward the Dec. 5 showdown with Texas and is not about to be derailed by the Owls.

ARKANSAS 28, RICE 7.
Arkansas State University wrapped up at least a share of the Southland Conference title last week with a 69-7 thrashing of Lamar Tech.

This week, the Indians step out of the conference to take on the University of North Dakota. North Dakota is 5-2-1, losing only to second-ranked Montana and third-ranked North Dakota State.

The Indians, who continue to top the college division poll, have another opportunity to impress the pollsters.

4AA Playoffs Scheduled

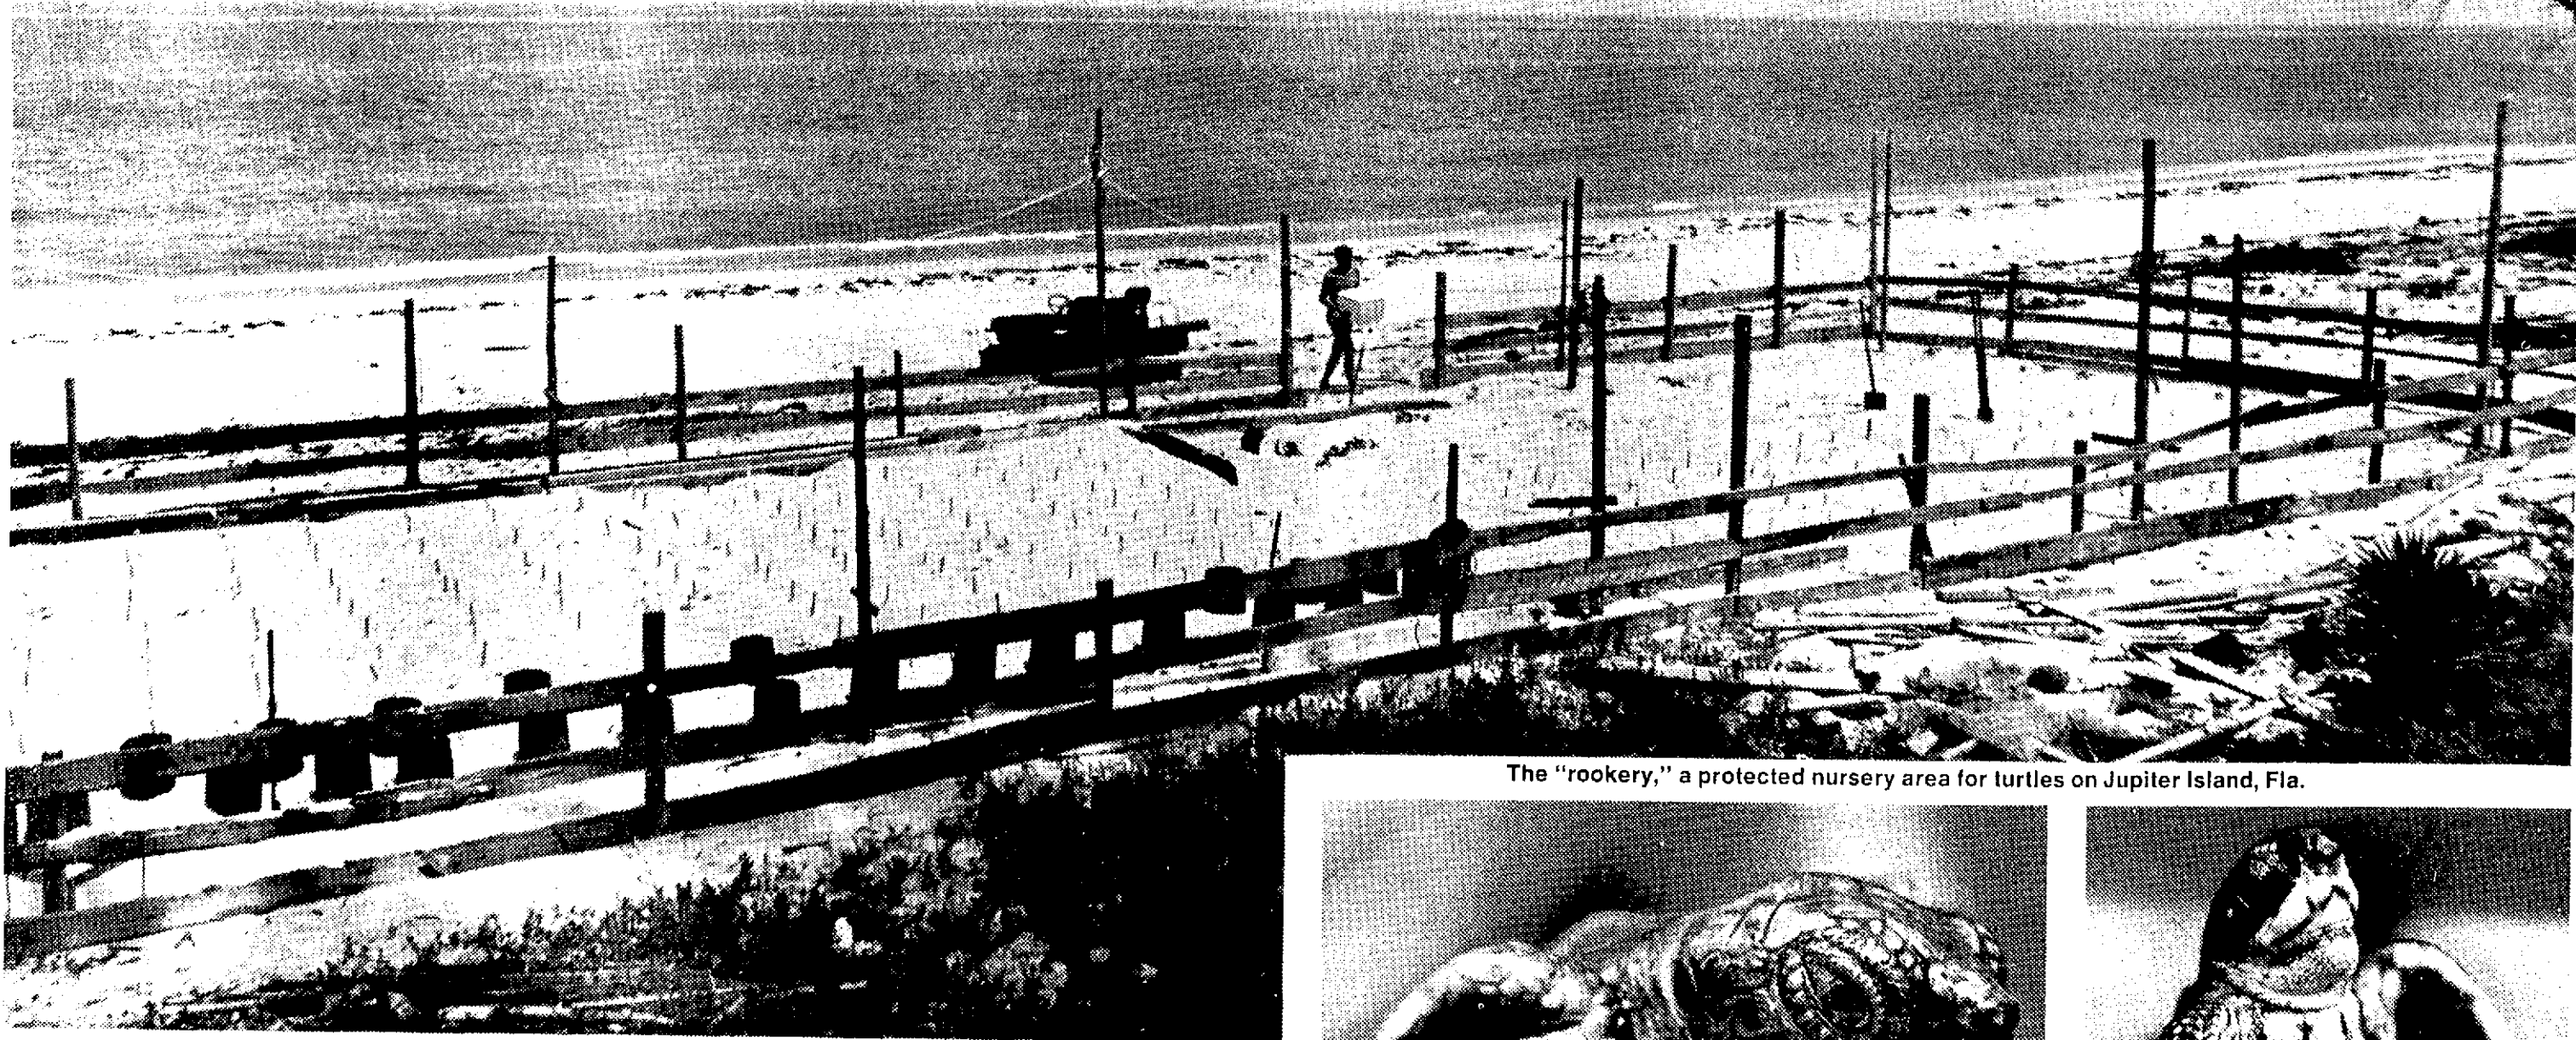

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) —

The playoffs for the Region 4AA football championship will be at Jordan Stadium here next Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The playoff matches the Arkadelphia Badgers, No. 1 ranked Class AA team in the state, of 4AA West and the McGehee Owls of 4AA East. The Owls will be the home team.

The Owls won the state Class A playoffs last year, making this their first year in Class AA.

TURTLE NURSERY

The "rookery," a protected nursery area for turtles on Jupiter Island, Fla.

If several thousand hearty young turtles toddle across the beaches of Jupiter Island, Fla., this fall and swim happily out into the ocean, Frank Lund can take a great deal of the credit.

Lund, a 20-year-old student at the University of Florida, has spent his last two summer vacations living on the beach, tagging loggerhead and green turtles and raising their young, out of fear for their possible extinction. Jesse and Mike White and Bruce Williams have been helping in this research experiment, whose aim is to determine the nesting habits of sea turtles, their populations, hazards they face when nesting, and percentages which hatch and return.

The boys dig up turtle eggs, take them to a "rookery" for hatching, and then keep and feed the turtles in a protected pool for several months until they are big enough to fend for themselves. So far 600 big sea turtles have been tagged. And this year there were 30,000 eggs in the rookery—with luck three quarters of them will have hatched and survived at the end of the season. Hazards facing turtles include raccoons, which eat eggs, extreme heat of the sand and erosion.

The four students hope to collect all their findings and publish them later. All this because, thirteen years ago, a fisherman friend happened to give young Frank Lund a turtle as a pet—which led to his present keen interest in turtles and concern for their survival.

Politics Flare Over Report on Jobless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political charges over unemployment continued today after the government's post-election report that the nation's jobless rate edged up to 5.6 per cent of the work force in October.

Democratic House Speaker John W. McCormack, who had predicted a rise to 6 per cent and charged the Nixon administration held up the report until after Tuesday's elections, said the official report didn't include some 600,000 "discouraged" unemployed.

The White House denied the report was deliberately held up until after the elections.

Republican National Chairman Rogers C.B. Morton retorted that Democrats, in pre-election forecasts of a 6 per cent jobless rate, had played "an economics politics of fear."

Friday's Labor Department report said the actual total of jobless Americans remained roughly the same at 4.3 million, but seasonal factors pushed the rate up one-tenth of 1 percentage point to 5.6 per cent.

It blamed the General Motors strike for the rise in the jobless rate and for a drop of 610,000 in manufacturing employment during the month.

It also said total employment rose 660,000, including farm workers and the self-employed, but that the key payroll employment figure was down nearly 500,000 to 0.6 million.

In all, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics, it added up to little change in the over-all job situation and didn't indicate much about the health of the economy because the strike of some 325,000 auto workers distorted the picture.

"The effects of the automobile strike really dominated the employment situation over the month and really obscure ... underlying economic changes," said Assistant Commissioner Harold Goldstein of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Doctor House Call Group Drops Service

CHICAGO (AP) — A doctors group which for 18 years arranged emergency house calls has voted unanimously to discontinue the service.

Dr. Robert Mustell, 76, who organized the doctors' emergency service of the Chicago Medical Society—and in some years made more than 500 emergency calls himself—said a shortage of general practitioners was the main cause for abandoning the service.

"We can't give people the help they need," Mustell said. "Unless we are given some doctors to give us a hand, there's nothing more I can do."

Mustell blamed increasing specialization among young doctors. Mustell, who was voted the outstanding general practitioner in Illinois in 1956, said he wrote to 135 new members of the Chicago Medical Society in 1968 on behalf of the doctors' emergency service and found only 10 willing to serve. He said he checked with the 10 a year later and found that not one had made an emergency call.

The panel once had 290 doctors and answered calls to homes, trains, planes, offices and on the street. Now 40 doctors participate in the emergency service out of 6,000 in the Chicago Medical Society.

"Most of the doctors have moved to the suburbs," Mustell said. "Another problem has been the changing character of neighborhoods and the danger to the doctor."

A spokesman for the Chicago Medical Society said the need for the emergency service had lessened because hospitals now are required to have emergency wards.

A spokesman for the American Medical Association commented that most physicians "feel they can provide better care in a hospital emergency room, where they have all the diagnostic equipment, than on a house call."

GOP Committee Meets Nov. 21

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Republican party will hold its state committee meeting Nov. 21, at which time new officers, including a new state chairman, will be chosen.

Money From Drawings to Charity

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Placed on sale today were 80 million copies of drawings by Princess Margrethe, heiress to the Danish throne, expected to fetch the equivalent of $1 million for charity before Christmas.

Making her public debut as a pictorial artist, the 30-year-old princess consented to design this year's Danish Yuletide stamps and came up with a gaily colored, humorous and stylized vision of Christmas preparations in what she called "the heavenly castle."

The stamps will sell at 10 or slightly more than one cent—apiece at all post offices. But since each stamp is only a fragment of the whole design, Danes will have to buy a full sheet of 50 to see all the princess' imaginative picture of bell-ringing, carol-singing, bassoon-playing and festoon-hanging angels swarming all over a towered castle.

Vote Reflected Good Judgement, Says Riley

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Bob Riley of Arkadelphia said that the results of Tuesday's election, in which he was elected lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket, demonstrated that "good sober judgment could not be coerced or intimidated by shrill voices or Madison Avenue press agency."

He also said his election and that of Dale Bumpers as governor was more of a "positive reaction" to their candidacies than a repudiation of the administration of Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

He told a news conference that the Democratic party had emerged "free of its past unfavorable image and once again faces the future with the clear and unmistakable confidence of the people."

Riley called Rockefeller's administration an "innovation that was an interesting experience but not beneficial." Bumpers had said Rockefeller had made a worthy contribution to the state both as governor and citizen. Riley said he disagreed to the extent that he saw no evidence of leadership by the governor in his dealings with the legislature.

Discussing the election results, Riley said, "It is significant that the people rejected almost without exception every candidate who sought to appeal to their emotions rather than their intelligence. The people's response communicates that they want clean campaigns, not mud-slinging, no character assassination, no appeal to hate emotions."

Riley said his Republican opponent, Sterling Cockrill Jr., had run "less than an honorable" campaign but added that he and Cockrill are still friends.

Riley, asked if Cockrill had engaged in mud-slinging, cited only one instance of campaign impropriety — a letter he said was distributed in Negro communities by an organization called Independent Voters of Arkansas. Riley did not say what was in the letter.

Asked if he knew whether Cockrill had knowledge of the letter, Riley said: "It was very pervasive and so widely distributed that it could hardly escape notice."

Riley said he was disappointed that the proposed new state constitution had failed. He said the votes were "misinformed to the point they were confused."

He said earlier Thursday at Arkadelphia that the document failed because of the "technique" in which it was presented.

"Those who were opposed to it made a stronger case," Riley said. He said defeat of the document did not mean the voters were "negative" on the issue.

Riley also suggested that seminars be held to help newsmen understand the "legislative process."

Israel Says Ceasefire Not Binding

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Defense Minister Moshe Dayan says Israel no longer is committed to terms of a U.S.-sponsored cease-fire and military standstill near the Suez Canal and that if Egyptian troops cross the canal "they will have to meet Israel's iron fist."

The cease-fire expired Thursday midnight, but a resolution passed Wednesday in the United Nations urged that it be extended, and the guns remained silent today.

Dayan told a group of engineers in Tel Aviv on Friday the extension was prompted by the U.N. resolution and contained no commitment to the United States, implying that Washington had tied Israel's hands with the original three-month standstill.

The resolution also recommended that Israel, Egypt and Jordan return to indirect peace negotiations at the United Nations, which Israel has refused to do until Egypt pulls back missiles allegedly moved closer to the canal in violation of the original cease-fire agreement. Egypt responded that the missiles were in the standstill zone before the agreement and refused to pull them back.

Egypt said the current extension is the last under any circumstances, and Premier Wasfi Tell of Jordan reportedly told a Beirut magazine he believes another Arab-Israeli war is inevitable.

Treacherous Baja Has Been Conquered

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — The treacherous Baja California peninsula has been beaten, and soundly, by men and machines led by two Californians who won over-all honors in the Mexican 1000 off-road race with a record time of 16 hours, seven minutes.

Drino Miller of Costa Mesa cruised into this resort on the tip of the rugged Baja peninsula early Thursday behind the wheel of a Volkswagen buggie to break the four-wheel vehicle mark of 20:48 set in 1969. Vic Wilson of Sunset Beach drove the winner for the first half of the race that began in Ensenada and covered 832 miles, most of it dusty, rocky trail.

Unofficially, the record fell in each of eight classifications in the fourth annual event, mainly because of improvements to the route. Stewards were expected to post official winners today.

Only 71 of 278 entries had finished the race by Thursday evening but some who started late Wednesday afternoon still had time to arrive here within the 48-hour limit.

The winners, with unofficial times:

Production two-wheel drive passenger vehicles Ingvar Lindquist, Sherman Oaks, Calif., and John Jhini, Los Angeles, Saab, 18:17 (old record 25:50 set in 1969).

Production two-wheel drive utility vehicles—Evans and Monjeon, Ford pickup truck, 17:42 (old record 25:07 in 1968).

Production two-wheel drive buggies—John Johnson, Spring Valley, Calif., and Larry Bright, San Diego, Calif., Corvair Bandido, 18:09 (old record 21:19 in 1969). Non-production two wheel drive vehicles—Wilson and Miller, VW buggie, 16:07 (old record 21:09 in 1969).

Good Gossip Jumps a Guards Fear 3-Minute Telephone Call to 600 Words

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

How fast do you speak? If you gab along at the average rate, you'll probably use 450 words in a three-minute phone call. But if you have some breathless gossip to impart, you can probably squeeze out more than 600 words in that time.

The male ostrich may look a bit homely, but handsome is as handsome does. He is one of the world's best husbands. He has several wives, all of whom lay their eggs in a single nest. From then on they don't have to wonder where papa ostrich is. He sits on the eggs himself and does most of the work of hatching them.

You may not think disinfectants are of great importance in your life, but consider this fact: if the descendants of one microscopic bacterium were allowed to grow unchecked, at the end of two days they would have a volume greater than the earth itself. What—two days? Yes, less than two days. Well, I yum!

You can't always believe what a wise man tells you. Aristotle taught that if a one-pound ball and a five-pound ball the same size were dropped at the same time from the same height, the five-pound ball would fall five times as fast as the one-pound ball. That isn't the way they teach it today.

AF Launches Secret Spy Satellite

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force today launched a secret spy satellite intended to provide almost instant warning of a long-range missile attack on the United States by the Soviet Union or Red China.

The satellite is to give a 30-minute warning of such an attack, doubling the 15 minutes that present systems give U.S. forces to prepare antimissile devices and launch bombers and missiles in retaliation.

A Titan 3 rocket thundered away from Cape Kennedy at 5:40 a.m. EST to propel the 1,800-pound spy satellite toward a near-stationary orbit about 24,000 miles above the Pacific Ocean.

The Pentagon clamped a secrecy lid on the launching and made no advance announcement. A brief statement after liftoff said only that the rocket had been launched with an experimental payload.

For the first time in 15 Titan 3 launches over five years, newsmen were barred from viewing the launch from a press site at Cape Kennedy. However, information about the launching has been available for several days from unofficial sources.

Plans called for the satellite to be parked above the Pacific so it could be checked out by ground stations in California. Then it would be shifted by ground command to a permanent post above Southeast Asia.

From this position, the satellite's infrared sensors could detect the exhaust of rockets launched from the Soviet Union or Red China.

The United States has launched several missile detection satellites in the past, but most have been experimental. The satellite launched today reportedly was designed for operational capability early in 1971.

A second satellite may be launched in 1971 to provide as much as a 15-minute warning of submarine-launched rockets that would be fired closer to U.S. soil.

State treasuries collect a total of about $488 million yearly in taxes on horse and dog races and the people who bet on them. Worth remembering: "Middle age is that time of life when you can feel bad in the morning without having had fun the night before."

The more there is to steal, the more there is stolen. This probably explains why auto thefts have risen faster than any other crime category. There are about four million more motor vehicles on the road today than there were a year ago.

It was Kin Hubbard who observed, "It's sweet to be remembered, but it's often cheaper to be forgotten."

American Is A Middle of Road Voter

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American voter proved himself in Tuesday's election to be a middle-of-the-roader who's not swayed easily to the right or left, says voting analyst Richard Scammon.

"He's not a yo-yo," said Scammon. "He does not change his ideas quickly. He can be moved, but not abruptly up or down in a fly-by-night manner."

Both the Democratic and Republican parties should take heed, he said, and aim toward the "new party of the center" in the 1972 presidential election.

"I'd say it's up for grabs," he told the Women's National Democratic Club.

"Some maintain there is an emerging Republican majority. I don't think we'd agree with that," he said, referring to his partner, Ben J. Wattenberg, in the Elections Research Center.

The two men wrote "The Real Majority," a widely read book that said the American electorate preferred middle of the road candidates.

In 1972, he predicted, voters' allegiances will be about the same. He wouldn't say whether President Nixon would win a second term, or whether Spiro T. Agnew would stay on as vice presidential candidate, but he did compare Agnew to an infantry second lieutenant, getting the front-line flack and risking his survival by being susceptible to straying too far out and antagonizing the center.

Scammon said Democrats and Republicans can justify their seemingly conflicting claims of victory Tuesday, because they interpret the same figures from their separate viewpoints.

"This was almost a copybook election in the sense that all the people who wrote about it were right," he said. "It was a reaffirmation of the center, of the desire of the voter to be found not too far away from the two 35-yard lines on the football field."

An important aspect, he said, was that social issues were neutralized. The Republicans were able to defend themselves as reasonable men, he said, "and the Democrats who approached this problem ... not in a radical right or redneck approach, could take care of these needs and move into something else."

He said the blue collar worker didn't defect from the Democratic party except in unusual instances, such as in New York where Conservative Sen.-elect James Buckley drew working class votes, and in a Denver congressional race where a Democratic peace candidate who also was strong for school busing was defeated.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan apparently got less working class support this year than four years ago, Scammon said.

The voters, Scammon said, above all else desire to be heard and to have problems of the day solved "within accepted parameters."

"You cannot pose any solutions while you spit on the flag. It may sound sentimental but I believe this to be true," he said.

Tradition Won't Survive

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Will the tradition of a citizen-soldier reserve survive the Vietnam war and the end of the military draft?

National Guard officials, noting less-than-hoped-for numbers of Vietnam veterans signing on for tours in Guard units, are having their doubts.

They're caught in a squeeze. Winding down the war reduces the number of young men entering Guard units to avoid full-time military duty under the draft. On top of that, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has set July 1, 1973, as the target date for cutting out draft calls altogether.

"The zero draft will have a major impact," according to Maj. Gen. Francis S. Greenleaf, deputy commander of the Guard.

Officials thought they sighted a manpower pool in the thousands of veterans returning from Indochina and other areas.

Under a new "Try One" program, the usual three-year enlistment is waived in favor of a trial one-year period, which allows the veteran to decide if he wants to continue.

Guard units were provided with updated addresses and other information on veterans placed in control groups, a classification requiring two weeks' active duty in the summer.

A goal of 3,000 new veteran sign-ups a month was posted, but in the first six months of the drive the Guard could attract only 900 veterans a month, about 30 per cent of the target.

Reporting to the National Governors' Conference, the Guard warned:

"It appears probable that Guard strength soon will commence to sag, perhaps to dangerous levels, unless steps are taken very quickly to make Guard service more attractive on a voluntary basis."

As of August attrition rates were running at 70 per cent, apparently reflecting the loss of many Guardsmen who signed up in 1964, when it became obvious draftees were going to fight the Vietnam war.

By drawing on waiting lists, the Guard has been able to maintain its 400,000-man level authorized by the Pentagon. But the lists are dwindling and maintaining readiness standards is difficult with a rapid turnover of faces in the ranks.

U.S. Deserter Having a Rough Time

MONTREAL (AP) — The American deserter stopped. The man facing him had a gun.

Policeman or terrorist? To a U.S. Army deserter in Quebec under Canada's recently imposed wartime security measures, it doesn't make much difference.

The deserter wheeled. Too late.

"Halt," said the man with the gun, quietly.

The man, a police detective, beckoned with his pistol. And before the day was out, the American, 23, a veteran of Vietnam who had deserted the 21st Division of the North American Air Defense Command, had been searched, questioned and ordered out of the country.

Broke, frightened and aware that getting caught back in the United States would mean the brig, he stayed in Canada, however, sent for some money and went underground. Many of the 200 American deserters and thousands of draft dodgers in Montreal were already there.

"We used to be a resting place, an open sanctuary for these kinds of people," says Pauline Vaillancourt, a political science professor with contacts in Montreal's deserter community. "Since the War Measures Act, though, this is clearly not the case."

Feminine Frills that Thrill

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It won't be long now when crowded stores will be the battleground for bewildered males trying to find a treasure or a trinket for their Christmas belles.

There's a bafflement on their manly faces as they are buffeted from perfume to hosiery by avid women shoppers who are a lot more at home in the world of fripperies.

One way to avoid a good deal of the chore that can take the joy out of Christmas is to start with a trusty pencil and pad and plan. Making lists can be a bore, but it's a lot simpler than feeling like something out of Lewis Carroll suddenly dumped in "lingerie." Then if you can't send your secretary to do the job for you, show her your list and get suggestions as to where you can go to shop merrily (?) and cross off each item expertly.

Here are some ideas as to what's around and new for the holidays:

A soft, pretty robe is always welcome as are the many filmy, pants-type, at-home costumes. If there is a size problem, some come in "small, medium or large" and that should make things easier.

Whether she's a devotee of the long or short hemline, pantyhose is still a big favorite. The new bootie types come in colors that exactly match shoes.

Perfume and cologne in the bottle size or the purse flacon as a stocking stuffer are always welcome. If you don't know her preference, buy her your preference and tell her you would be flattered if she would wear it just for you. She will.

In the jewelry category rings are important this season. From flawless diamonds to flattering fakes, she can wear one on nearly every finger.

Newest in neckline jewelry is the dog collar—in pearls, stones, silver or gold. And watches come in a wardrobe of colors to match almost every outfit.

Easy-to-Sew Skirts

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

In communities all across the country, autumn is kick-off time for Christmas bazaars held in churches and town halls to raise money for all sorts of worthy causes.

The needlework table is always a star attraction, and plenty of sharp shoppers count on snatching up a handful of handmade bargains for unusual, one-of-a-kind Christmas gifts.

Here are two easy-to-make holiday skirts, guaranteed to thrill any teen-ager. They can be made in quantity for a bazaar table, in different colors of felt and corduroy. Trimmings by William E. Wright add holiday sparkle.

The felt skirt is made from any simple A-line skirt pattern. Seam sides, apply waistband and zipper. Large-sized red scallop trim is stitched on for waist and hem accents. At hem, stitch scallop trim above hemline and trim away excess felt after stitching. The three holly leaves take six scallops each. Pin as shown, and stitch, adding green fringe ball berries.

Bright lines of peasant braid and metallic rickrack make the deep pockets on this simple corduroy skirt. Make the skirt first, using a basic dirndl pattern. To make pockets, cut a 15-inch square of matching corduroy, and stitch on bands of trim, following the corduroy grain as a guide line. Start

NEW CHAPEL

HENLEY - ON - THAMES, England (AP) Prince Stanislaus Radziwill, husband of Mrs. Lee Radziwill who is a sister of Mrs. Jacqueline Onassis, has offered to pay for a 75,000 pounds ($180,000) chapel to be built on the grounds of the Divine Mercy College, run by Polish priests four miles from his home. The present chapel, where the Radziwill family worships, holds about 20 people. The new chapel would accommodate 300. Prince Radziwill is a naturalized British subject of Polish origin.

Chantilly will shake her world this Christmas in this new Louis XVI flacon (left), a replica of an antique. She will think you're the greatest Santa alive if you gift her with the perfume claimed to be loved by every woman alive (upper right). Any hostess would be charmed with a collection of hypo-allergenic splash stick—lipsticks for guests (center right). For the little lady on your list there are accent barrettes in make-believe black and white reptile patterns and new mini-braids for instant hairdos (lower right).

sure to be successful as gifts. And in today's world of pants outfits, belts—ornate or plain—are any girl's delight.

There's more to choose from than ever before and with list in hand, playing Santa should not be too difficult.

If you're really stymied, there's always a gift certificate. But the ladies in your Christmas thoughts, whether they be 6 or 60, will be happier with a remembrance that called for a little imagination on your part.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

UP TO HER EARS IN NOISE

Dear Helen:
I left home once because of it, then came back as I felt guilty—also broke. But Helen, I'm up to my ears in noise.

It's my mother. She slambang around the house—doors, drawers, etc. She plays TV way up to here. When we have donnybrooks about it, she says she can do what she damwell pleases in her house. I tell her noise is invading my air space, thus she invades my privacy.

Her hearing is normal—it's been tested—but I wonder if all this loudness will affect her later. They say kids who listen to rock music tend to go deaf, and my mother's noise really ROCKS you! After I came home, she tried holding it down for a while, but now it's high level again.

Before I leave for good, maybe you could tell an introverted child how to cope with an extroverted parent. —BLASTED OUT BY A CLATTERFAMILIAS
Dear Blasted:

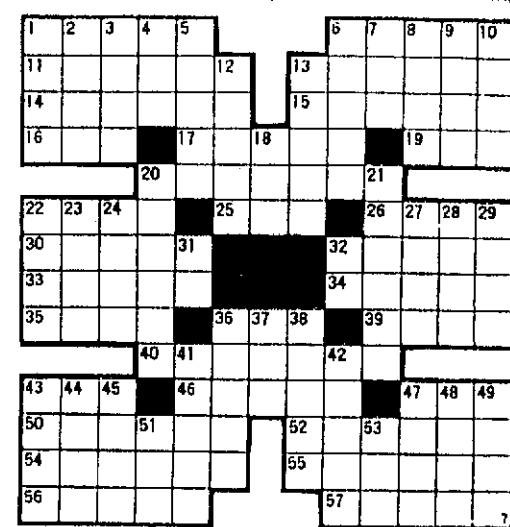

Just as certain people need more heat than others, so too does your mother need a slambang, noisy life to keep her perking. You can't change her basic drives any more than she can change your aversion to "clatterfamilies," but you can both hit the consideration button a little harder. Perhaps she'll tune down TV if you ignore a few door slams: Things like that.

Holiday skirts of felt and corduroy, imaginatively trimmed with Wright's scallop braid, peasant braid, and rickrack, are sure to succeed at the Christmas bazaar. Easy to make in quantity, these are ideal Christmas gifts for teens.

Boris Koytchou of New York holds the distinction of having represented both France and the United States in international competition.

He sat East today and was able to visualize an approaching squeeze and signal the defense to break it up.

South went right up with dummy's king of clubs and led the nine of diamonds. If Boris could have been sure his partner would shift to a heart if he won that first diamond, he would have played low. However, he was sure that his partner would keep on with clubs. So, Boris made the play of rising with his king. When the king held, Boris cleared the clubs for his partner. South continued with diamonds. West held off once and had to win the third diamond lead.

It was up to Boris to make a discard and most anyone would have played a high heart to ask for a heart shift after clubs were all taken.

Boris made the very different play of the heart deuce. He continued by discarding the three and seven, while West was taking his two good clubs.

South had to drop a spade on the last club. West studied awhile. It was very obvious that he wanted to lead a heart but West sighed and led the three of spades. Boris' nine forced South's ace. South cashed his diamonds but had to let Boris score the setting trick with the spade queen.

Suppose that West had led a heart, instead of a spade. South could rise with dummy's ace, enter his own hand with the ace of spades, cash his diamonds and squeeze Boris out of either the heart king or the guard for the spade queen.

BERT'S BRACELET

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Bert Yancey says he isn't superstitious but he wears a thin copper bracelet on his right wrist.

Last year he was plagued by a tennis elbow that failed to respond to treatment. Someone suggested he wear a copper bracelet because it would "draw acids from his body."

"I don't know if it's a psychological thing or not," says Yancey, "but I haven't been bothered with a sore arm since I've had it on. After winning the Crosby tournament you can be sure I'm not taking it off for a while."

So You Want To Be A Recreation Worker

By ERNIE HOOD

Pat O., St. Petersburg, Fla., writes: "I believe I'd like to be a recreation worker. Can you tell me whether it's 'my thing'?"

Dear Pat: You alone can answer that, but I can assure you that employment of recreation workers is expected to increase very rapidly through the 1970s. Several thousand will be needed annually for growth and to replace personnel who leave the field for varied reasons.

There are between 40,000 and 50,000 professional recreation workers employed and the supply of college graduates with a major in recreation has fallen far short of demand.

Factors that will contribute to growth include increased leisure time and rising levels of per capita income. Longer life and earlier retirement will increase the number of clubs and organizations for retired persons.

Beginning salaries for recreation leaders with a bachelor's degree are in the neighborhood of $7,500 annually, according to the National Recreation and Park Association. Some in large cities earn up to $20,000.

Most employers prefer persons who have a bachelor's degree and a major in recreation, social science or physical education. You should take a broad range of courses in college—including the humanities, natural sciences and the arts. Specialized courses stressing the history, philosophy and scope of recreation; the techniques of community organization; health and safety procedures, and outdoor recreation are particularly helpful.

If you have a question about a career field, write to SO YOU WANT TO BE in care of Newspaper Enterprise Assn., 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Oklahoma and Baylor to Meet

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor University and the University of Oklahoma have announced a home-and-home football series for 1973 and 1974. Baylor athletic director Bill Henderson announced today.

Baylor will host the Sooners Sept. 15, 1973 and will travel to Norman for the 1974 game on Sept. 14.

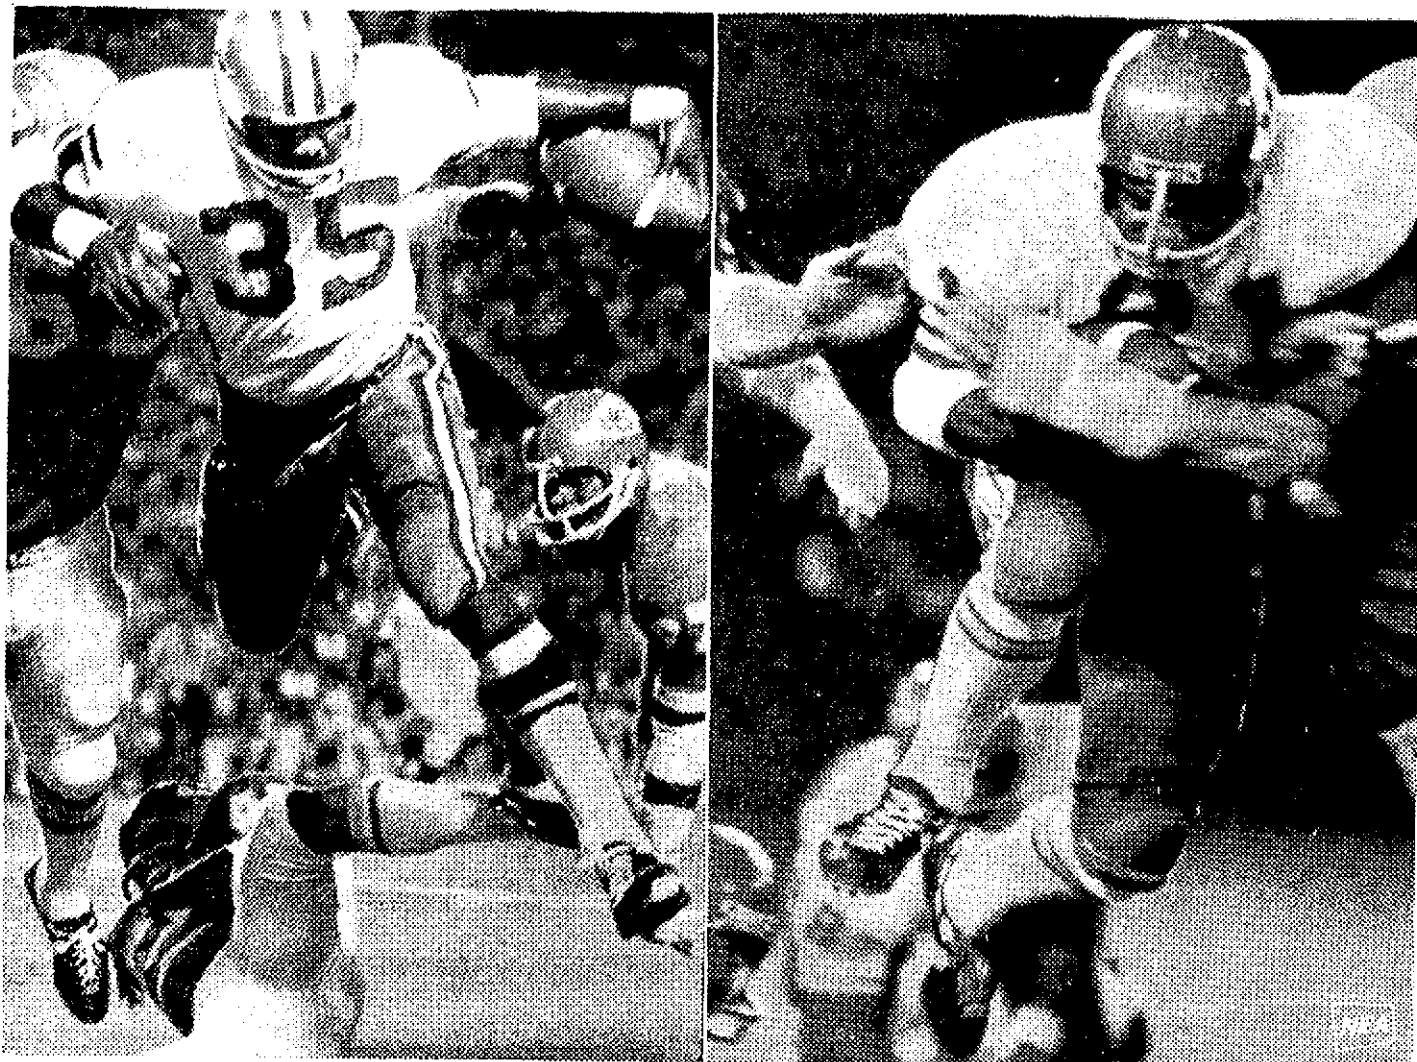

Baylor and Oklahoma met once in 1901 with the Sooners taking a 17-0 triumph.

The games with Oklahoma will give Baylor 11 contests both years. In 1973, Baylor will play Pittsburgh, Colorado and Florida State. In 1974, the Bears will tangle with Missouri, Oklahoma State and Florida State.

Newton gained 75 yards on 11 carries. Rody Briggs led Nashville with 75 yards on 15 carries.

Stallings Is Likely on His Way Out

Associated Press Sports

That six-paragraph announcement out of College Station Thursday gave Texas A&M football coach and athletic director Gene Stallings something to hang his hat on until the end of the season.

Like a number of votes of confidences you may have seen from time to time it was more notable for what it didn't say.

New President Dr. Jack W. Williams said Stallings, who has seen his promising team sink to six consecutive losses after a mind-bending upset of LSU, has the full support of the university's administration.

Williams said there have been no recent meetings of the university's athletic council and none is planned before the end of the football season.

It didn't say Gene Stallings was going to be coach next season.

The fact is there has been tremendous bickering among A&M students, former students, athletic council members, and board of directors that has reached the days of venom similar to the sound and fury before John Bridges was booted out at Baylor two years ago. "The Houston alumni have the money to buy his contract right now," says one professed insider.

"They've already talked to Paul Dietzel and Bill Yeoman," says another.

"The players aren't putting out because they want to see him go....They hate the extra long practices and that shoving match in the locker room after one game didn't help," says another.

"It'll be quiet and clean this time," says another person close to the athletic department. "They'll have somebody hired before he's fired."

"He was hanged in effigy around here the other night, you know," says one student.

These are some of the nicer rumors you hear.

That was the reason for the Thursday announcement—to quieten the waters while Williams can make his own in depth investigation into the situation.

"Look, I haven't even seen 'em play," Williams told The Associated Press. "All these rumors remind me of Shakespeare—methinks you can protest too much. I'm going out and get the opinion of folks I respect."

O. D. Butler, chairman of the athletic council; Clyde Wells, president of the board of regents, and Stallings were at Thursday's meeting.

Stallings told The AP, "I believe I've done a better job coaching this year than I did in 1967 when we won the championship."

Look, I try not to complain but we've had everyone one of our linebackers hurt—six of 'em. It's obvious the team is playing tense because of all this talk about changing the coaches, but they're giving all they have out there on that field.

Powder Puff Brawl Slated for Tonight

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Tonight, the seniors meet the juniors in the Sixth Annual Powder Puff Classic sponsored by the Hope High Student Council, and what a game it should be.

Gametime is set for 7:30 p.m. with some very interesting halftime activities of interest to everyone. Also, at halftime a doorprize will be given away.

Both teams have confidence that they will win, boasting some fine runners with good blockers to lead the way. Strong kicking will also be a factor and there will be good kickers for both teams.

It looks to be a real battle for supremacy, but from this viewers side, the juniors should win sizably, 22-8.

Starting for the seniors on offense are: quarterback - Rita Taylor; halfbacks Sharon Bain and Janice Whitaker; fullback - Sharon Brown; ends - Sarah Schenck and Rhonda Moses; tackles - Tommi Watson and Pat Harris; guards - Susan Stevens and Jackie Townsend; and center - Barbara Fuller.

On defense are ends Sharon Bain and Judy Honeycutt; tackles - Tommi Watson and Pat Harris; guards - Polly King and Jackie Townsend; linebackers - Celia Fault and Becky Huff; halfbacks Sharon Bain and Delia Jordan; and safety Nan Hogan.

Others seeing action for the seniors will be Marlene Bennett, Julia Barber, Nancy Porter, and Melissa Mohon.

Junior offensive starters are: quarterback - Betty Rodden; flanker - Sandy Flowers; fullback - Terry Jones; tailback - Karen Davis; ends - Cindy Hollis and Gladys Spellman; tackles - Mary Jane Reyenga and Sandra Hamilton; guards - Susan Rearden and Karen Britt; and center Beth Gilbert.

Defensive starters are: monster man - Terry Patterson; noseguard - Barbara Hollis; tackles - Aretha Key and Mary Jane Reyenga; ends - Sandra Hamilton and Vickie Davis; linebackers Susan Rearden and Gladys Spellman; halfbacks Sandra McFarland and Nan Arnold; and safety Cindy Hollis.

Sharing the halfback position will be Melissa Jordan with Carla Delaney, Essie Carter, and Roni Polk also seeing action for the Juniors.

Coach Has Confidence in Hamilton

By HARRY KING

Associated Press Writer

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) —

Arkansas State University Coach Bennie Ellender has extreme confidence in his quarterback, James Hamilton.

For example, ASU, protecting a seven-point lead against Lamar Tech, faced a first down at its own two yard line. Ellender called a play-action pass and Hamilton's perfect throw to Chet Douthitt split two defenders for a 98-yard touchdown play.

Hamilton, a 6-2, 210-pound junior, is not a picture perfect quarterback. He may throw off the wrong foot once in a while, but he's a winner.

With Hamilton at quarterback, ASU won the Southland Conference championship in 1968 and 1969 and clinched a tie for another title last week. During those three seasons, the Indians have compiled a 22-4-2 record.

Yet, Hamilton is only one of the reasons ASU has been ranked No. 1 in the college division poll since the first week of the season.

There's Calvin Harrell, Johnny Carr, Wayne Dorton and Bill Phillips.

Harrell, a 215-pound tailback, led the SLC in rushing last year but when he was injured in the Trinity game, Carr filled in with 122 yards rushing and a 74-yard touchdown toss.

"We've had Harrell come along even better than last year and now Carr has done so well that we're able to keep a fresh tailback in the game at all times without a dropout," Ellender says.

Harrell is a crunching runner; Carr a darter.

Between them they have gained 1,165 yards in seven games.

In ASU's offense, the tailbacks have carried 249 times and the fullbacks only 46 times.

"They don't do anything fancy," said one opposing coach. "They pretty much tell you what they're going to do and dare you to stop them."

That's where Dorton and Phillips, a pair of 6-2, 245-pound offensive guards come in.

"As a combination I'd have to say that they're the best I've ever seen on one team anywhere," Ellender said. "Their greatest contribution is that they've allowed us to establish a true inside game. Phillips has great quickness and Dorton has exceptional strength. When it comes to blocking straight ahead, it would be hard for me to believe that anyone could do it better."

When the season began, Ellender expected big things from the offense, but worried about his defense where seven starters had to be replaced.

"We've improved tremendously on defense since the first of the season," Ellender said. "I don't really think we're particularly strong against the running game or the passing game, but we've been strong enough and we have good enough balance that people have not been able to hurt us in more than one area on a given day.

"We pursue well... I guess that's our strongest point," he said. "I think we have the kind of defense that forces mistakes."

The inspirational leader on defense is senior linebacker Gary Cleve, whose shoulder pops out of socket almost weekly.

Dennis Meyer, a 160-pound junior, heads up an experienced secondary. Meyer picked off seven passes last year and has already matched that total this season. Against Abilene Christian's Jim Lindsey, Meyer deflected seven passes.

ASU also has the little things—kicking specialist Bobby Gentry has hit on six of nine field goal attempts and 29 of 31 extra points; Hamilton is averaging 39.3 yards a punt and Kearney Blalock leads the nation in kickoff returns with an average of 37.1.

And, the Indians are still a year away. There are only three seniors among the 22 starters.

Blues Prove Bruins Can Be Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Blues, trying to prove this season they still can win the revised West Division, proved a few other things Thursday night—that Boston still can be scored on and that the Bruins still can be beaten at home.

The Blues surprised the defending Stanley Cup champions 2-0 on Frank St. Marselles goal late in the second period and the shutout goaltending of Glenn Hall and Ernie Wakely.

St. Louis, picked to finish second behind the Chicago Black Hawks after winning the West the past two years, thus broke a second place tie with Philadelphia and pulled within one point of the Black Hawks, who moved over from the East this year.

Detroit beat Philadelphia 3-1 and Vancouver overcame Buffalo 4-1 in other National Hockey League games.

The Bruins fired a 30-footer past goalie Eddie Johnston at 16:57 of the second stanza for his first goal of the season.

Then, when the Bruins pulled Johnston in the final 37 seconds, Jim Roberts scored his third goal of the season.

Hall turned aside 25 shots before leaving from "heat exhaustion" and Wakely made 13 saves, many of them brilliant, in the final session as the Blues handed Boston its first loss on home ice since last January, 29 games ago. It also was Boston's first loss to a West team at home since December, 1968.

Detroit spotted Philadelphia a goal by rookie Serge Bernier after 17 seconds of play, but Gordie Howe set up Alex Delvecchio on a power play at 4:33 of the period for a 1-1 tie.

Defenseman Larry Brown, just acquired from New York last weekend, put the Red Wings ahead with his first Detroit goal on a rebound of his own shot at 8:31 of the second, and Howe clinched it with a de-

OLDERMAN

Fran's 5th Leading Passer in the Pros

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The disappointment was obvious, even masked as it was by the plastic blue helmet and double face bars which hid Fran Tarkenton's expression (but not the long hairs which protruded down the back of his neck). He kicked the sod of Yankee Stadium in exasperation.

Joe Morrison, circling out of the New York Giant backfield, had juggled and dropped a soft pass over the middle thrown by Tarkenton. This came in the third quarter of the Giants' game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The experience in itself wasn't unusual. At that precise moment, in his 10th year as a professional quarterback, Tarkenton had lived through 1,464 incomplete passes. What made this particular one unique was that it came after the sharp-schnozzed quarterback had thrown 10 straight completions in the game—all of them right on target with a little something extra on the ball.

But the fact of breaking the string was not, claimed Francis A., what made him kick up dirt emotionally.

"I wasn't even aware of 10 straight," said Fran. "At the moment, we needed to sustain a drive. That third-down pass would have gotten us going again."

The Giants were leading at the moment, 21-10, but acutely self-conscious about having blown halftime leads in their first three games this year. All of them losses.

So Fran Tarkenton's gesture of frustration reflected his professionalism as a competitor rather than obsession with personal records. He has enough of the latter—he's already the fifth leading passer in professional football history, ahead of such venerable names as Y. A. Tittle, Norm Van Brocklin and Sammy Baugh, who first inspired Tarkenton to thoughts of football when Fran was a little kid in Washington, D.C.

When a Joe Kapp leaves a flourishing dynasty such as the Minnesota Vikings for the hazards of building with a team of unknowns in Boston, it mystifies Fran Tarkenton. Money alone doesn't explain it for him (though it should be explained that Fran, head of his own business conglomerate, is well on his way to his first million dollars).

Winning—or the lack of it—is a thing with the veteran (30 years old) Giant quarterback. Only once in his nine full seasons as a pro has he felt the elation of being with a winner—when the Vikings finished 8-5-1 in 1964. The quest of a not-impossible dream keeps him in the brutally physical game of pro football.

An amazing streak of good luck sustains him, too. In this era of brittle and vulnerable quarterbacks (e.g., Joe Namath and Charley Johnson this season), Tarkenton had never missed a game in nine years. "It's a phenomenon," he admitted. "A quarterback needs to stay well."

In 1963, the Chicago Bears knocked him goofy in the first quarter of a game, but he was back in action in the fourth quarter. Two years ago, he suffered a shoulder separation against the Atlanta Falcons, got a shot of pain-killer on the spot and kept on playing.

As the original scrambler, he probably exposed himself to more knocks than any other quarterback, too. Today, he doesn't run quite as much as he used to and looks for a soft spot on the ground when danger lurks. But in his Cardinal outing, he suffered a bump on his throwing forearm and didn't let it bother an artistically satisfying afternoon (despite Morrison's miff). He would up with 15-for-18 in pass completions, a career high for five touchdown tosses in a game—and a team victory.

"I've been in every type of game situation," he said. "I know what it takes to win."

That means no dropped third-down passes.

Politics Flare Over Report on Jobless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political charges over unemployment continued today after the government's post-election report that the nation's jobless rate edged up to 5.6 per cent of the work force in October.

Democratic House Speaker John W. McCormack, who had predicted a rise to 6 per cent and charged the Nixon administration held up the report until after Tuesday's elections, said the official report didn't include some 600,000 "discouraged" unemployed.

The White House denied the report was deliberately held up until after the elections.

Republican National Chairman Rogers C.B. Morton retorted that Democrats, in pre-election forecasts of a 6 per cent jobless rate, had played "an economics politics of fear."

Friday's Labor Department report said the actual total of jobless Americans remained roughly the same at 4.3 million, but seasonal factors pushed the rate up one-tenth of 1 percentage point to 5.6 per cent.

It blamed the General Motors strike for the rise in the jobless rate and for a drop of 610,000 in manufacturing employment during the month.

It also said total employment rose 660,000, including farm workers and the self-employed, but that the key payroll employment figure was down nearly 500,000 to 70.6 million.

In all, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics, it added up to little change in the over-all job situation and didn't indicate much about the health of the economy because the strike of some 325,000 auto workers distorted the picture.

"The effects of the automobile strike really dominated the employment situation over the month and really obscure... underlying economic changes," said Assistant Commissioner Harold Goldstein of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Doctor House Call Group Drops Service

CHICAGO (AP) — A doctors group which for 18 years arranged emergency house calls has voted unanimously to discontinue the service.

Dr. Robert Mustell, 76, who organized the doctors' emergency service of the Chicago Medical Society—and in some years made more than 500 emergency calls himself—said a shortage of general practitioners was the main cause for abandoning the service.

"We can't give people the help they need," Mustell said. "Unless we are given some doctors to give us a hand, there's nothing more I can do."

Mustell blamed increasing specialization among young doctors.

Mustell, who was voted the outstanding general practitioner in Illinois in 1956, said he wrote to 135 new members of the Chicago Medical Society in 1968 on behalf of the doctors' emergency service and found only 10 willing to serve. He said he checked with the 10 a year later and found that not one had made an emergency call.

The panel once had 290 doctors and answered calls to homes, trains, planes, offices and on the street. Now 40 doctors participate in the emergency service out of 6,000 in the Chicago Medical Society.

"Most of the doctors have moved to the suburbs," Mustell said. "Another problem has been the changing character of neighborhoods and the danger to the doctor."

A spokesman for the Chicago Medical Society said the need for the emergency service had lessened because hospitals now are required to have emergency wards.

A spokesman for the American Medical Association commented that most physicians "feel they can provide better care in a hospital emergency room, where they have all the diagnostic equipment, than on a house call."

GOP Committee Meets Nov. 21

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Republican party will hold its state committee meeting Nov. 21, at which time new officers, including a new state chairman, will be chosen.

Odell Pollard of Searcy is the outgoing party chairman. The leading contenders for Pollard's job are generally considered to be Charles T. Bernard of Earle and William Kelly of Little Rock, although Everett Ham of North Little Rock has also expressed interest in the job.

Money From Drawings to Charity

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Placed on sale today were 80 million copies of drawings by Princess Margrethe, heiress to the Danish throne, expected to fetch the equivalent of $1 million for charity before Christmas.

Making her public debut as a pictorial artist, the 30-year-old princess consented to design this year's Danish Yuletide stamps and came up with a gaily colored, humorous and stylized vision of Christmas preparations in what she called "the heavenly castle."

The stamps will sell at 10 ore slightly more than one cent apiece at all post offices. But since each stamp is only a fragment of the whole design, Danes will have to buy a full sheet of 50 to see all the princess' imaginative picture of bell-ringing, carol-singing, bassoon-playing and festoon-hanging angels swarming all over a towered castle.

Vote Reflected Good Judgement, Says Riley

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Bob Riley of Arkadelphia said that the results of Tuesday's election, in which he was elected lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket, demonstrated that "good sober judgment could not be coerced or intimidated by shrill voices or Madison Avenue press agency."

He also said his election and that of Dale Bumpers as governor was more of a "positive reaction" to their candidacies than a repudiation of the administration of Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

He told a news conference that the Democratic party had emerged "free of its past unfavorable image and once again faces the future with the clear and unmistakable confidence of the people."

Riley called Rockefeller's administration an "innovation that was an interesting experience but not beneficial." Bumpers had said Rockefeller had made a worthy contribution to the state both as governor and citizen. Riley said he disagreed to the extent that he saw no evidence of leadership by the governor in his dealings with the legislature.

Discussing the election results, Riley said, "It is significant that the people rejected almost without exception every candidate who sought to appeal to their emotions rather than their intelligence. The people's response communicates that they want clean campaigns, not mud-slinging, no character assassination, no appeal to hate emotions."

Riley said his Republican opponent, Sterling Cockrill Jr., had run "less than an honorable" campaign but added that he and Cockrill are still friends.

Riley, asked if Cockrill had engaged in mud-slinging, cited only one instance of campaign impropriety — a letter he said was distributed in Negro communities by an organization called Independent Voters of Arkansas. Riley did not say what was in the letter.

Asked if he knew whether Cockrill had knowledge of the letter, Riley said: "It was very pervasive and so widely distributed that it could hardly escape notice."

Riley said he was disappointed that the proposed new state constitution had failed. He said the votes were "misinformed to the point they were confused."

He said earlier Thursday at Arkadelphia that the document failed because of the "technique" in which it was presented.

"Those who were opposed to it made a stronger case," Riley said. He said defeat of the document did not mean the voters were "negative" on the issue.

Riley also suggested that seminars be held to help newsmen understand the "legislative process."

Israel Says Ceasefire Not Binding

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan says Israel no longer is committed to terms of a U.S.-sponsored cease-fire and military standstill near the Suez Canal and that if Egyptian troops cross the canal "they will have to meet Israel's iron fist."

The cease-fire expired Thursday midnight, but a resolution passed Wednesday in the United Nations urged that it be extended, and the guns remained silent today.

Dayan told a group of engineers in Tel Aviv on Friday the extension was prompted by the U.N. resolution and contained no commitment to the United States, implying that Washington had tied Israel's hands with the original three-month standstill.

The resolution also recommended that Israel, Egypt and Jordan return to indirect peace negotiations at the United Nations, which Israel has refused to do until Egypt pulls back missiles allegedly moved closer to the canal in violation of the original cease-fire agreement. Egypt responded that the missiles were in the standstill zone before the agreement and refused to pull them back.

Egypt said the current extension is the last under any circumstances, and Premier Wafsi Tell of Jordan reportedly told a Beirut magazine he believes another Arab-Israeli war is inevitable.

Treacherous Baja Has Been Conquered

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — The treacherous Baja California peninsula has been beaten, and soundly, by men and machines led by two Californians who won over-all honors in the Mexican 1000 off-road race with a record time of 16 hours, seven minutes.

Drino Miller of Costa Mesa cruised into this resort on the tip of the rugged Baja peninsula early Thursday behind the wheel of a Volkswagen bug to break the four-wheel vehicle mark of 20:48 set in 1969. Vic Wilson of Sunset Beach drove the winner for the first half of the race that began in Ensenada and covered 832 miles, most of it dusty, rocky trail.

Unofficially, the record fell in each of eight classifications in the fourth annual event, mainly because of improvements to the route. Stewards were expected to post official winners today.

Only 71 of 278 entries had finished the race by Thursday evening but some who started late Wednesday afternoon still had time to arrive here within the 48-hour limit.

The winners, with unofficial times: Production two-wheel drive passenger vehicles Ingvar Lindquist, Sherman Oaks, Calif., and John Jhini, Los Angeles, Saab, 18:17 (old record 25:50 set in 1969).

Production two-wheel drive utility vehicles—Evans and Mongeon, Ford pickup truck, 17:42 (old record 25:07 in 1968).

Production two-wheel drive buggies—John Johnson, Spring Valley, Calif., and Larry Bright, San Diego, Calif., Corvair Bandito, 18:09 (old record 21:19 in 1969). Non-production two wheel drive vehicles—Wilson and Miller, VW bug, 16:07 (old record 21:09 in 1969).

Production four-wheel drive vehicles — Bill Cone and Gene Hightower, Jeepster, 19:03 (old record 20:48 in 1969).

Non-production four-wheel drive vehicles—Robert Sievert and Dan Widner, both of Colorado Springs, Colo., Buick jeep, 21:46 (old record 23:36 in 1969).

Motorcycles up to 125cc—Steve Hurd, Montebello, Calif., and Doug Smith, San Bernardino, Calif., DKW, 21:48 (old record 22:25 in 1969).

Good Gossip Jumps a 3-Minute Telephone Call to 600 Words

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

How fast do you speak? If you gab along at the average rate, you'll probably use 450 words in a three-minute phone call. But if you have some breathless gossip to impart, you can probably squeeze out more than 600 words in that time.

The male ostrich may look a bit homely, but handsome is as handsome does. He is one of the world's best husbands. He has several wives, all of whom lay their eggs in a single nest.

From then on they don't have to wonder where papa ostrich is. He sits on the eggs himself and does most of the work of hatching them.

You may not think disinfectants are of great importance in your life, but consider this fact: If the descendants of one microscopic bacterium were allowed to grow unchecked, at the end of two days they would have a volume greater than the earth itself. What—two days? Yes, less than two days. Well, I vum!

You can't always believe what a wise man tells you. Aristotle taught that if a one-pound ball and a five-pound ball the same size were dropped at the same time from the same height, the five-pound ball would fall five times as fast as the one-pound ball. That isn't the way they teach it today.

AF Launches Secret Spy Satellite

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force today launched a secret spy satellite intended to provide almost instant warning of a long-range missile attack on the United States by the Soviet Union or Red China.

The satellite is to give a 30-minute warning of such an attack, doubling the 15 minutes that present systems give U.S. forces to prepare antimissile devices and launch bombers and missiles in retaliation.

A Titan 3 rocket thundered away from Cape Kennedy at 5:40 a.m. EST to propel the 1,800-pound spy satellite toward a near-stationary orbit about 24,000 miles above the Pacific Ocean.

The Pentagon clamped a secrecy lid on the launching and made no advance announcement. A brief statement after the launch said only that the rocket had been launched with an experimental payload.

For the first time in 15 Titan 3 launchings over five years, newsmen were barred from viewing the launch from a press site at Cape Kennedy. However, information about the launching has been available for several days from unofficial sources.

Plans called for the satellite to be parked above the Pacific so it could be checked out by ground stations in California. Then it would be shifted by ground command to a permanent post above Southeast Asia.

From this position, the satellite's infrared sensors could detect the exhaust of rockets launched from the Soviet Union or Red China.

The United States has launched several missile detection satellites in the past, but most have been experimental. The satellite launched today reportedly was designed for operational capability early in 1971.

A second satellite may be launched in 1971 to provide as much as a 15-minute warning of submarine-launched rockets that would be fired closer to U.S. soil.

Guards Fear Tradition Won't Survive

By MIKE SHANAHAN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Will the tradition of a citizen-soldier reserve survive the Vietnam war and the end of the military draft?

National Guard officials, noting less-than-hoped-for numbers of Vietnam veterans signing on for tours in Guard units, are having their doubts.

They're caught in a squeeze. Winding down the war reduces the number of young men entering Guard units to avoid full-time military duty under the draft. On top of that, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has set July 1, 1973, as the target date for cutting out draft calls altogether.

"The zero draft will have a major impact," according to Maj. Gen. Francis S. Greenleaf, deputy commander of the Guard.

Officials thought they sighted a manpower pool in the thousands of veterans returning from Indochina and other areas.

Under a new "Try One" program, the usual three-year enlistment is waived in favor of a trial one-year period, which allows the veteran to decide if he wants to continue.

Guard units were provided with updated addresses and other information on veterans placed in control groups, a classification requiring two weeks' active duty in the summer.

A goal of 3,000 new veteran sign-ups a month was posted, but in the first six months of the drive the Guard could attract only 900 veterans a month, about 30 per cent of the target.

Reporting to the National Governors' Conference, the Guard warned:

"It appears probable that Guard strength soon will commence to sag, perhaps to dangerous levels, unless steps are taken very quickly to make Guard service more attractive on a voluntary basis."

As of August attrition rates were running at 70 per cent, apparently reflecting the loss of many Guardsmen who signed up in 1964, when it became obvious draftees were going to fight the Vietnam war.

By drawing on waiting lists, the Guard has been able to maintain its 400,000-man level authorized by the Pentagon. But the lists are dwindling and maintaining readiness standards is difficult with a rapid turnover of faces in the ranks.

U.S. Deserter Having a Rough Time

MONTREAL (AP) — The American deserter stopped. The man facing him had a gun.

Policeman or terrorist? To a U.S. Army deserter in Quebec under Canada's recently imposed wartime security measures, it doesn't make much difference.

The deserter wheeled. Too late.

"Halt," said the man with the gun, quietly.

The man, a police detective, beckoned with his pistol. And before the day was out, the American, 23, a veteran of Vietnam who had deserted the 21st Division of the North American Air Defense Command, had been searched, questioned and ordered out of the country.

Broke, frightened and aware that getting caught back in the United States would mean the brig, he stayed in Canada, however, sent for some money and went underground. Many of the 200 American deserters and thousands of draft dodgers in Montreal were already there.

"We used to be a resting place, an open sanctuary for these kinds of people," says Pauline Vaillancourt, a political science professor with contacts in Montreal's deserter community.

"Since the War Measures Act, though, this is clearly not the case."

"You cannot pose any solutions while you spit on the flag. It may sound sentimental but I believe this to be true," he said.
